

Mark Strathmore, Service Providers and Business to Business Manager for South Africa.

Mark has been in the IT industry for 21 years, 10 of those being with Dimension Data's Internet Solutions business, and the rest being spread over several other companies primarily in the telecommunications and storage arenas.

At Internet Solutions he ran the business unit responsible for Internet services, and most recently was the sales director for partner alliances at SoftwareAG - a German multinational in the Business Intelligence software space. At Nokia, Mark has responsibility for all Business to Business activity.

Mark has an MBA from Bond University Australia, with an undergrad in Engineering (light current) from the Technicon Witwatersrand.

In his spare time Mark reads as widely as possible, and spends time in the bush to support his passion for wildlife photography.
